

ENGL 635 – Westman
Online Discussion for Bend It Like Beckham (2002)

In place of our usual class discussion on Thursday April 20th, you will participate by posting to our electronic bulletin board discussion. (This contribution will take the place of your regular weekly posting.)

In order to keep this conversation together on the board, to prompt discussion, and to indicate your “attendance” at this online class discussion, please follow the directions below.

After 9 a.m. on Wednesday, but before midnight on Sunday, visit the bulletin board to read my posting titled “_Bend It Like Beckham_ (4/19-4/23)” and offer your response according to the following steps:

1. Select one of the three discussion questions about the film that I include in my posting, and think about what you’d like to offer in response.

2. When you are ready to post your response, see if anyone else has replied to your selected question.

- If you are the first one to offer a response to your selected question, congratulations! You get to start this question’s “reply” thread. With my message open on your screen, select “Post response.” For your reply, alter the subject line of your posting to indicate the number of the question you’re responding to, as well as any additional information about the angle of your response (e.g., “Q#2: Jess, Jules, and Gender”).

- If someone else has already posted a reply to your selected question, read the response(s). Then, open one of these existing responses, and select “Post response,” so you can reply and enter the existing conversation about this question. Adjust the subject line as necessary.

3. Don’t forget to select “post message” after you have entered your response!

Note: If you experience technical difficulties and can’t post by the deadline on Sunday, email me the text of your posting to indicate your participation, and then try posting it again.
