

GLBTQ Resources at K-State

(Just some of them)

K-State welcomes all students, faculty and staff. Because of past and we hope fewer current inequities we make an effort to provide gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgendered and questioning individuals with help, as needed. Below are a few specific groups and offices that can help or can help you find help:

LGBT Resource Center

The Resource Center opened in August 2010 and is a welcoming center for information and resources for the entire community.

University Groups:

SafeZone

The purpose of the SAFE ZONE program is to provide campus "safe zones" where individuals affected by homophobia, hateful acts, & sexual violence can safely go for support and assistance. SAFE ZONE allies signify that their space is a safe place to talk about issues which impact people who have been affected by any type of hateful or homophobic act, or who have been affected by sexual violence, sexual harassment, or any criminal or distressing situation.
