KSU Classified Senate Employee Newsletter

April 2002

President's Column

Dear Classified Employees:

As a classified employee you may not realize that you are performing one of the most important job duties at Kansas State University. Beyond the written job descriptions, many classified employees experience positive interaction with students working on campus. Some staff become mentors, and long time friends with the students.

It was recently brought to my attention by the Office of Student Life, that while students are employed on campus in the many departments, the staff is often aware of the challenges students face. It is because of the knowledge of the staff to recognize the needs of students, that many students receive support in both good times and in times of need.

However, when the assistance goes beyond the ability and knowledge of staff, together with the Office of Student Life, students can receive the services they require.

Thank you to the classified staff for continuing to provide leadership and support to the students.

Sincerely,

Ann Marie Treinen

2002 Classified Employee Recognition Ceremony

The 25th Annual Classified Employees Recognition Ceremony will be hosted by the KSU Classified Senate on Wednesday, May 22, 2002, at 2 pm, in the K-State Student Union Ballroom.
